WHY NOT HAVE THE BEST MILK FOR YOUR CHILDREN

Norton Dairy

Milk costs a trifle more per quart but this amount can be saved on luxuries and food less liable to infection. Hundreds of Phoenix families have proven this. We have had a waiting list of customers all winter but prices would not warrant increasing our output. So many tourists and others are leaving the city this month that we can supply additional patrons if on our routes. You are invited to inspect our plant, just north of State Fair Grounds.

MITCHELL DISAPPEARS

EXCITEMENT PREVAILS

Failure to Keep Promise and Broken Spring Combination That Frightened Friends

Because Samuel H. Mitchell, manager of the Phoenix Railway company, failed to keep a promise made to friends, there was about as much excitement in certain Phoenix circles yesterday, as there would have been if the city had been blown up or the recall petitions had been withdrawn. It all came about through the failure of Mr. Mitchell, generally careful to make his promise he cannot or does not intend to keep, to telephone from somewhere out on the Roosevelt road the cause of his failure to return from a trip to the dam that it had been expected would be concluded not later than midnight of the day before.

Mr. Mitchell, Mrs. Mitchell, their youngest daughter, and Mr. Mitchell's sister, who is visiting here from Boston, started out for the dam bright and early Thursday morning. They expected to land at the dam before noon, spend the afternoon there and return by moonlight. It was to be a delightful trip. No mishaps had been taken into account. But even the best laid plans sometimes go awry. A spring on Mr. Mitchell's trusty automobile broke away out on the road and it was necessary to "put up" for the night. And Mr. Mitchell was so flustered over the unexpected turn of affairs he didn't use the telephone.

Yesterday noon Harry Diehl and P. H. Ensign began the organization of a searching party, a sort of a relief expedition. They pictured the Mitchells starving out on the desert, perhaps marooned on some forgotten trail away from human habitation. And when they were about ready to start, Mr. Mitchell and his party, aboard their limousine, rolled into Phoenix, glad they had made the trip but unaware of the unnecessary grief they had created, or of the applications that had flooded the main offices of the Phoenix Railway company for the supposedly deceased Mr. Mitchell's job. Mr. Mitchell announced last evening that he has given an order that his car shall be equipped with a wireless apparatus and that hereafter he will never be out of communication no matter if all the springs on his car should disintegrate.

lie at the bottom "if within 150 feet" and stay there from 12 to 24 hours with perfect safety.

The F-4 is equipped with a Nurnberg Diesel engine of a heavy oil burning type. The tremendous range of temperature, which effects the expansion and contraction of the castings used, frequently causes cracks in the cylinderheads and piston heads.

The lead battery, too, always has been a source of apprehension on a craft like the F-4. When a battery has been in service any length of time and there are many things that may happen. The plates may buckle, there may be short circuits, or there may be a battery explosion of the hydrogen gas given off in the vessel.

The question of ventilation of the batteries has been given a great deal of attention. The gas hydrochloric forms when salt water gets in a lead battery and its dangers have been pointed out in congressional hearings and reports. With thirty pounds pressure to the square inch at sixty feet depth the water inside the ballast tank is liable to be forced up through the battery tank. The navy installed what is called an automatic blow to prevent a vessel going below the depth set, generally 65 feet.

The American government to have Turkish troops sent to the region is regarded probable here that no further effort will be made to get aid from Russia. It was suggested also that consuls at Tabriz were cautious in getting troops into the district for fear their coming might precipitate a massacre. The state department received no official notice tonight of destruction and outrages at Gulpashan as reported to the Presbyterian board of foreign missions at New York from native Christians at Tabriz. Secretary Bryan received an appeal from the Presbyterian board during the day urging him to do everything possible to relieve the situation.

RAILROADS TO APPEAL

NEED AND AIMS

to his neighbors. In other words this is the farm and this farmer is a failure. Why? Is it due to him? Not by a thousand miles; it is due to the fact that with all the bounty that nature provides, and with all our efforts that young man has no facility for getting his products to the people who would be more than glad to use it and pay for it, and make it possible for him to live and prosper.

"This is but one instance of hundreds in this valley, as you well know. There is but one solution, and that is co-operation on the part of the farmers, who produce vegetables and other products and corresponding co-operation of the public element with the farmers toward placing this market within his reach. This is what the Chamber of Commerce is trying to do. This is what it is going to do. Whenever the farmers in this valley are prospering and can buy products for their use and that of their families, each of you business men will prosper and unless this is accomplished there is no line of business in Phoenix or this valley but what will be a failure.

"The finding of markets is a business and we have to proceed as in all business proceedings. First, the farmers must agree by an iron clad contract to supply satisfactory products. Second: this association must constantly provide those products. The success of Rockford, Greely and Southern California in marketing products of the soil is due to the fact that they can supply the constant demand with a superior article. We, too, can proceed along practical lines.

"Today or tomorrow the United Producers' Association of Arizona will be incorporated. It will have two kinds of stock, preferred and common. But one share of preferred stock, which will be the voting stock, will be sold to any one individual, and every producer who owns a share of this stock will be able to market his products through the association. The common stock will be sold in any amount. It will be the supporting stock and by purchasing it you will be supporting this organization. I am going to say to you frankly that no assurance is given that this common stock will be a dividend paying investment, unless the whole plan succeeds. If the movement is a success, which I think it will be, the stock will be worth something, if it isn't you have staked your money against the efforts of the farmers, and you could not have staked it in a more worthy cause.

"We have not gone into this matter blindly. We have taken it up with local consumers. The heads of big mining companies have unanimously agreed that they will use their influence with merchants in their camps to use Salt River Valley products exclusively if possible. All we need to do is to guarantee that the products will be supplied. We would not have to ask twice for this assurance from the mining companies. Two or three of them spent several hours after we telephoned them in interesting their local people and we are going to gather support from every quarter. This association will place competent market finders in the east, and next year, instead of five or six cars of lettuce going out, we expect to ship one hundred."

The service talks at the meeting were made by H. L. Aller of the Pacific Gas and Electric company and Edward Bertram of Bertram Brothers. Among the visitors at the meeting were Warren C. Whitney, vice president of the A. B. Chase Piano company of Norwalk, Ohio, and L. H. Weir, field secretary of the National Play Grounds and Recreation Association, both of whom were called on for short speeches. Dr. Crawford also made a short address. The prizes of the day went to Tom Whitney, Will Pinney and Tom Stewart.

the six states nor the one yesterday by the four states can be effective unless adopted by the various sanitary boards of the states and proclaimed by their governors. The agreements were made by representatives of the sanitary boards of the states.

California was represented by State Veterinarian Charles Keane; Utah by Inspector A. Carrington Young; Nevada by W. M. Mack; Oregon, by State Veterinarian A. H. Gable; Washington by Commissioner of Agriculture H. T. Graves; and Idaho by J. O. Rhodes, its official representative.

Dr. H. H. Hicks, of the bureau of animal industry, addressed the association on "the foot and mouth epidemic." The government's fight against the disease was started from the beginning in August, 1914, near Niles, Michigan to its apparently successful conclusion. He said but few infected herds remain, only three west of Pennsylvania, two in Wisconsin and one in Kansas.

"We believe it unsafe to experiment or trifle with this disease one minute longer than is necessary," he said. "We are willing the people of Europe and other countries to do the experimenting. If half of our 58,000,000 head of cattle are depreciated by conditions prevalent in Europe, the loss in value of the cattle alone will be more than $200,000,000."

ceive an opinion from City Attorney Christy that the action of the superior court in affirming the findings of the commission made effective the appointment of Robert A. Craig as city manager. Manager Craig was then in possession of the city vault and was instructed to assume the duties of the office and to proceed with the signing of the city payroll warrant. He was also notified that a report from him would be expected at the next meeting of the commission which was subsequently set for next Wednesday.

The need of a new city building ordinance was advanced by Commissioner Foley who was informed that such an ordinance is in the course of preparation and would be submitted to the city attorney at an early date. Commissioner Woods asked that the city clerk issue a bulletin notifying all heads of departments of the appointment of Mr. Craig as manager.

The printing of 2000 sample ballots of the general city election of April 6, was ordered, and instructions given that they be distributed to electors upon request.

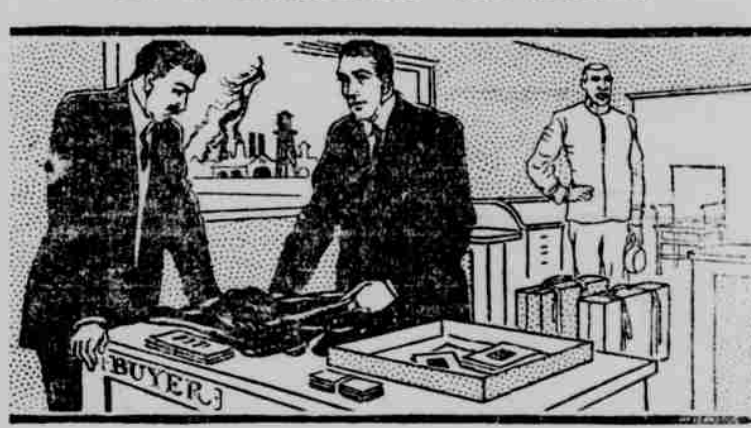

Last evening upon accepting the resignation of Chief of Police Brawnner, Manager Craig placed the police department in charge of Policeman R. L. Wilkerson and directed him to exercise the functions of chief of police until further notice. Acting Chief Wilkerson has been a member of the city police force for several years and is fully competent to discharge the duties suddenly thrust upon him. For several years, previous to becoming a member of the local force, he was a member of the Denver police force and has demonstrated that he is a capable officer. For more than a year he has acted as plain clothes man and to his efforts have been due the running down of many robberies that promised to give the police no end of trouble in solving. Only the other day he succeeded in unraveling the mystery of the theft of a handsome Alaskan wildcat skin coat, belonging to Miss Dorothy Burke, a former member of the Columbia theater company, after it had practically been decided that the affair was destined to remain a complete mystery. The alleged culprit is now in the county jail. Should Manager Craig leave Policeman Wilkerson in the office of chief, there is every reason to believe that the affairs of the department will be well handled.
